GENERAL KUROKI'S HEADQUASSITERS IN THE FIELD (undated), via then Tain, September 29-(Evening).—The most interesting military problem at present is how large a Russian army the railway can support in Manchuria. While the army is south of Harbin, almost all the necessary food supplies can be obtained in the country, but the farther north it goes the more it must depend on the railway, while at the same time the Japanese will gain an advantage by having an increased area to draw from. The richest section of Manchuria is the country of which Liac Yang is the principal market, and the crops in that section in this season are unusually large. Merchants who are acquainted with the country believe that if General Kuropatkin should retreat to Harbin he must then bring nearly every pound of food by means of the railway, especially as this year's crop in the Sungarl Valley has proved a failure. Besides this, overy horse for the Russian commander must be brought over the railway.

If winter campaigning is attempted, on which point there is much speculation, it will become increasingly difficult after December, because the ground freezes to so great a depth us to render intrenching operations almost impossible.

The organization of the Japanese army continues to be as efficient as it has been replaced by henvier material with remarkable quickness.

Press rode from Line Yang to New Chwang and found that surprisingly little damage had been done to the grain, considering that two great armies had fought over the country, while with the queepions of a few buildings, which had been burned in the Russian settlement at Line Yang, there were small evidences of destruction. The territory is far from being devastated, as might naturally have been expected.

The reports which charge the Japanese troops with looting at Line Yang were greatly exagged fed. Some of the soldiers, who first extered Line Yang, inding plenty to drink, helped themselves and did some looting of small articles from the shops, but the conduct of the Japanese army as a whole throughout the campaign in respecting property has been irreproachable. The looting done at Line Yang was insignificant, and, compared with the looting at Then Tsin and Pekin by foreign troops in 1909, it is not worthy of mention.

Chief Croker Falls Through Floor, But Is Rescued-Ammonia Pipes Burst.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, September 30.-Nearly a quarter of a million dollars' loss was caused here by a fire in the big block of ment packing houses and refrigerating plants in Tenth Avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth Streets.

Occurring at a late hour the fire burne steadily through the night before it was brought under control to-day.

Chief Croker came near meeting death by falling through a floor weakened by the flames into a cellar under the building. He was rescued by two firemen, when it was found that his hand was badwhen it was found that his hand was bad-ly cut. A few moments later the chief rushed up a ladder and rescued two fire-men, who had been overcome by am-monia fumes, in time to prevent their falling to the ground.

The leaviest loss was in the three-story building occupied by the Cudahy Packing Company, the 'T. A. Wheeler Company and Compon Brothers, dealers in poultry, where the fire started. In the basement of this building are located the engines furnishing power to the several refrigerating plants and other machinery in the various packing plants.

Besides the building, where the fire started, it damaged and practically destroyed the Ruines's Law Hotel of D. F. Cunningham, and two four-story buildings, occupied by T. A. Wheeler and Company and the G. H. Hammond Company.

RALEIGH, N. C., September 30.--The people of Raleigh were horrified this morning by the news of the terrible death of Dr. T. D. Hogg, one of the oldest, most respected and wealthlest citizens of the city. He was eighty-one years old, and had been afflicted with melancholy, manifesting itself times in a desire to put an end to his life. This morning he wandered off from the house about 6 o'clock and before any of the family had even missed him from the house, he had wandered to the Johnston Street station of the Seaboard Ali Line and thrown-himself under a passing shifting engine and the great driving wheel of the engine passed right across his watst, cutting his body in two. He was otherwise terribly mangled.
